AMUSEMENTS.

There was no performance of "Made-leine" at the Salt Lake theatre last evening. Miss Savage, who plays the title role, was ill and unable to up-pear. Accordingly the large audience had to be dismissed. In the place of last evening's postponed performance the opera will be sung next Wednes-day evening, when the tickets bought for last evening will be honored.

Matthews & Bulger in "By the Sad Sea Waves" will be the next attraction at the Salt Lake theatre.

Canada's Greatest Glory.

(Scribner's.)
The greatest glory of Canada is not dismodern progress, but its vast and ancient wilderness. If you weary of the sameless and unprofitableness of everything you know, go where I went last year, to the upper waters of the Ottawa, where the beaver is the master architect and the moose is king of the woods. See for yourself, as I saw, that the Ottawa and the Gattheau, appearing to come from widely distant regions, have their origin close together and are twins. Behold these two children of the lakes, nourished from the same generous breast. Trace their courses.

and see that, though journeying far, in widely different directions, they finally arrive at a common destination.

Nobody knows all about the headwater country around the source of the Ottawa. It is a prollife game region, where sportsmen rarely so, for the simple reason that they can get all the hunting they want nearer to the railroad. There are plenty of deer close to almost any Canadian Pacific stiffion west of Pembroke, and it is not much troubs to get a chance at a moose in two days from Deux Rivieres. Rockeliffe, or Mattawa. Not many hunting parties start from there, either, and I suppose the reason is that for thousands of miles-to the west the woods, prairies and mountains ille close to the railread and afford almost limitiess opportunities. The territory inclosed by the Ottawa and the Gatinean has been from immenantal, the home of the Algonquin Indiana, and they still remain there, in such primitive insecence that they receive no annuity from the Dominion government. In this they are unlike the Indians of the United States or their-brother tribes of Canada.
